Coming home!

Dawn Hammons, a senior at Romulus High School, expresses her surprise at being selected this year's homecoming queen. The parade, which featured area businesses and school floats, began at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 4. This year's first place float winners went to (at left) the Junior class at Romulus High for their depiction of an eagle riding in a 'homemade' Ford.

Incidentally, Romulus won the football game against opponents from Oak Park!

Metro gas line break causes evacuation

By CHRISTINE RIZK
ANP Staff Writer

A gas line break at Metro Airport caused the evacuation of hundreds of employees and closed down the southeast corner of Middlebelt and Wick Roads while Detroit Edison crews rushed to turn off the gas and begin repairs at 8:55 a.m. Friday, Oct. 4.

The accident, caused by construction crew members who struck the main gasline that traverses the airport, sent a gaseous odor throughout Metro. Edison crews needed to reduce traffic in the area to insure that sparks and car fumes would not ignite the vapors, authorities said.

Traffic at Goddard and Wayne roads was completely halted and redirected for approximately one hour while repairs took place, Romulus police said.

About 500 employees near the southeast corner were evacuated, including the county maintenance yard and portions of the county offices in the area that services the airport, Sgt. William Wadsworth said Friday.

There were no injuries reported.

The area where the gas main was struck is currently under demolition and reconstruction as a part of the airport's future expansion project.

One square mile was evacuated to insure the safety of workers and travellers.

The accident caused no delay in air traffic except to divert incoming planes away from the main break site, Wadsworth said.

Romulus police were called to the scene to help direct traffic. Within hours, construction crews started up again.

Horse tragedy causes stir

By CHRISTINE RIZK
ANP Staff Writer

The tragedy Monday on I-94 involving 43 horses that left 22 dead as the result of the bottom falling out of a trailer has led the Michigan Humane Society to anticipate filing charges against the owner possibly by the end of the week.

According to David Wells, Executive Director of the humane society, the agency is considering filing misdemeanor charges that include up to one year in jail and a fine if Clifford J. Schmitt, 74, owner of the horses, ever arrives in Michigan.

Wells said it was undetermined Tuesday whether the charges would apply only to Schmitt himself or include any property he was having transported.

Schmitt owns a livestock company in Plain, Wisconsin. Dietrich Zenter was the driver of the trailer on his way to Sarnia, Ontario where the horses were to be slaughtered.

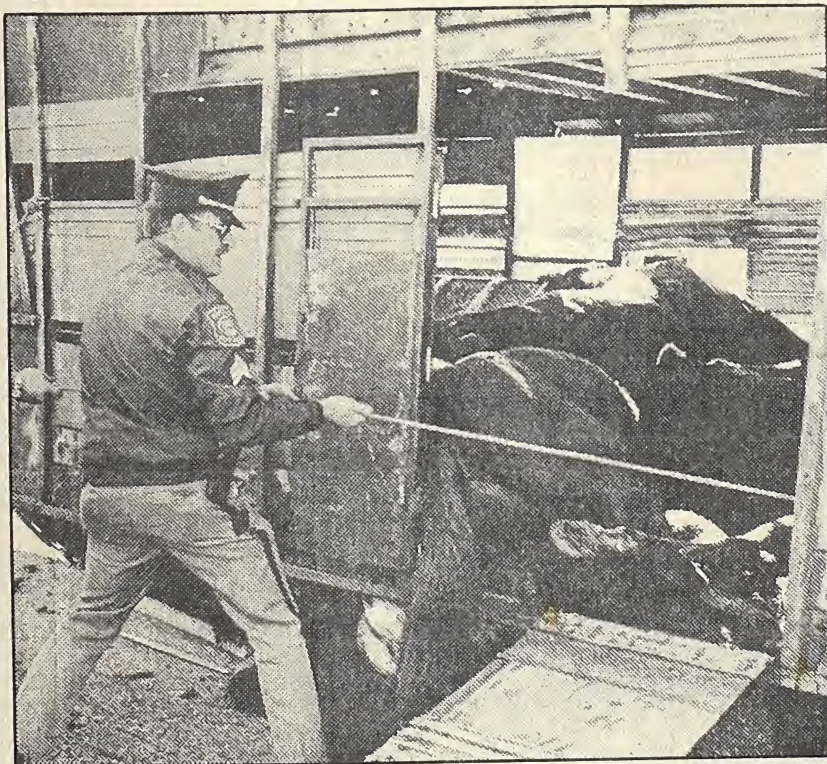

Romulus police Monday charged Zenter with failing to maintain equipment, improperly securing a load and with spillage of load onto a highway.

Zenter told police that he was following instructions from Dietrich when continuing to drive the trailer after he had notified Dietrich that there were problems.

Police said that the bottom of the trailer fell out at 7:45 a.m. and that some of the horses had been dragged along I-94 for over one mile.

Cleanup crews, including the Romulus police and fire departments responded to the accident for over three hours.

Over half the horses were crushed in the accident or put to death by injection after the incident. Some horses, those that escaped the rig after the driver stopped, were roped and sent either to their destination or to the home of a Van Buren township rancher, William Wilson, according to published reports.

The Romulus Department of Public Works provided trucks in which to place the dead horses after which they were sent to rendering companies.

The accident, which caused traffic backups on I-94 as far away as Ann Arbor, led police to divert traffic to Wayne and Middlebelt roads for much of the morning and afternoon.

Officers at the scene described the tragedy as "terrible" and labeled it one of the worst animal accidents they had witnessed.

Soon after the incident, the Michigan Humane Society issued a statement indicating that certain procedures regarding the transport of animals across interstate highways should have been followed.

Wells, who said in a telephone interview Tuesday that a full-scale investigation was underway, said the Monday tragedy should prove to Michigan residents that stricter laws involving animal transport should be enacted.

"They shouldn't have been transported in a double tier truck in the first place," he said.

Apparently, the trailer, an enclosed 40-foot vehicle, had two floors, one of which collapsed during travel, causing the horses on the second story to fall onto the bottom level.

As a result, police said, the extra pressure on the main floor caused the bottom to fall out.

Wells said that animal cruelty in transportation was a pressing problem for the society faced with an apathetic public and little funds with which to fight the practices of livestock transport.

"People just don't understand that animals have rights," he explained. "It's the reason we treat people like we do because we treat animals like this. It's nothing but a social mirror of the way we treat each other."

Schmitt was unavailable for comment Tuesday. According to published reports, Schmitt said he did not realize the extent of the trailer problems after talking with Dietrich Monday.

City ponders study of Northline connector

By CHRISTINE RIZK
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus has been invited to join in a tri-city study of a connector between I-75 and I-275 along Northline in an attempt to build a commercial corridor that would enhance business growth and activity.

The proposed study, currently contingent upon Romulus's committal to the project, was brought to the city council by the Downriver Community Council and Johnson, Johnson and Roy, a planning, landscaping and engineering firm in Ann Arbor.

The cost of the project study is $70,000. Each city has been asked to contribute $10,000 for their share of the funding.

The cities of Taylor and Southgate have already committed to their share of the cost of the study and are waiting for Romulus' response.

The project under consideration is a detailed planning study that looks at the facades of current structures along the corridor, traffic movement, landscaping and lighting.

The idea, Dennis Oaks, from the D.C.C. said, is to design common corridor from Dix Road to I-275 south to Eureka Road.

The 11 mile stretch, he explained to the city council during a recent meeting, could be conceivably enhanced utilizing design proposals brought out in the study.

"We want to prepare plans for the whole corridor," Oaks said during a telephone interview. "This will allow the area to become a whole sense of identity for travellers along this route--a consistent theme."

Improvements, Oaks stressed, will not be made directly to Northline Road, in fact, plans are already underway by the state to improve road conditions.

The study, he said, would consider land uses only for the purpose of expanding and making more attractive the businesses along that route.

"We would like to make Northline, Middlebelt and Eureka a more attractive environment to business and industry," he said.

The D.C.C. is a job training and economic development agency consisting of 16 communities from River Rouge south to Flat Rock.

The Northline study was conceived by the agency as a marketing tool for the whole corridor in question.

The agency will provide $40,000 for the study that is expected to last four months.

Rich Viskochil, community development director for Romulus, said he feels that the council's tentative review of the project study was "positive".

The study was prompted, he said, when the state highway department offered to improve the interchange if a study was made to determine land use at I-275 and Northline Road.

Viskochil said that the city will be updating its master plan and included in those revisions will be the discussion of improving Northline Road.

The city is currently discussing the possibility of sharing the cost of the study with Metro Airport since much of the area along the corridor is owned by that entity.

"I still have a little bit of reservations about spending $5,000," Viskochil said, "but it takes money to do these things."

Once the study is completed, both Oaks and Viskochil agreed, it will be up to each city to act upon recommendations set forth.

Eventually, Viskochil said, Romulus will do something.

"It's going to be in our future," he explained. "We've already zoned that area for industry. It's just a matter of time before businesses find it economically feasible to settle there."

Viskochil discounted comments by council members who suggested that once the area is enhanced, it could serve to move travelers out of the area, instead of drawing them into Romulus.

Councilman Barry Baumann said during a recent council meeting that the study would "benefit" the downriver communities more than Romulus.

"Potentially, we could be shooting ourselves in the foot," he said. "It would just encourage people to exit the city."

A decision by the council is expected before the end of the month, officials said.

Sidewalk code proposed

By CHRISTINE RIZK
ANP Staff Writer

The city council will consider an ordinance mandating that commercial and industrial facilities provide sidewalk installations at the time of site plan approval by the planning commission.

The proposed ordinance, heralded as promulgating Romulus into the status of a more modern, urbanized community, was prompted by Mayor Beverly McAnally as a likely solution to the city's pressing need for pedestrian walkways.

In a resolution presented to the council for their approval in conjunction with the proposed amendments to the current sidewalk ordinance, which does not provide for sidewalk installations before site plan approval, the "substantial growth and development" of Romulus was listed as a major reason for the measure.

The new sections of the sidewalk ordinance provide for the location and grade of sidewalks in the grading plans for any new project under construction.

The city will then review the plans prior to issuance of a building permit.

Section 2.02 would provide for the construction of the sidewalk on a line parallel to the edge of the road and the inside edge be one foot from the edge of the road.

Also included in the ordinance is a Sidewalk Board of Appeals whose composition would consist of members of the police and fire safety committee.

The board would grant variances to the proposed amendments and waive the requirements after evidence indicating that no sidewalk is necessary or that hardship will result.

The board could determine that during initial construction, a sidewalk cannot be placed and order that money be deposited in an escrow account until such time when a sidewalk can be placed.

The applicant would have one year from the time of deposit to begin construction of the sidewalk. If construction does not begin within that time, the money in the escrow account would revert to the city.

The new pills contain a powerful clinically proven appetite suppressant that an advisory panel of doctors have determined to be "safe and effective for weight loss."

In addition, the pills also contain a remarkable calorie-free dietary fiber that expands in your stomach and tends to give you a partially satisfied feeling before you eat. Thus, the new combination of ingredients in the pills act 2 ways to aid in curbing your appetite, causing you to eat less, take in less calories, and lose weight without feeling deprived or hungry.

Pills Contain ALL Daily Vitamins
No need to take any vitamins to maintain your good health and energy because the pills are fortified with ALL (100%) of the U.S. Government USRDA recommended daily vitamin requirements.

New building sought for public safety

By CHRISTINE RIZK
ANP Staff Writer

The ordinance department could issue tickets for violations but that department is housed within the very walls of the structure they could cite.

The officers, while determined not to groan about the poor conditions, won't hesitate to offer proof of the somewhat questionable conditions.

And the police chief adamantly insists that it is a question of the people's choice.

The point is that the current structure that houses over 44 public safety officers is in dire need of repair, that is if you can 'repair' a building originally intended to service hundreds of elementary students a day to the satisfaction of police personnel.

The Public Safety building, which houses both the police and fire departments, in addition to the ordinance department, rests unobscurely on Olive Street.

A passerby would most likely fail to take note of that fact unless he was familiar with the birth of the Romulus Police Department and the desparate conditions that led to its current home there.

Designed to service Romulus residents in the aftermath of severe budget cuts by the council, that five acres of land owned by the city near city hall and the court be used for the construction of a new building.

The cost is approximately $2.5 million and would be funded from Proposal C, the two-mill proposal for five years if it passes in the election.

"We have to do something," said Dennis Davidson recently, amid discussion that the residents will not approve Proposal C at the polls.

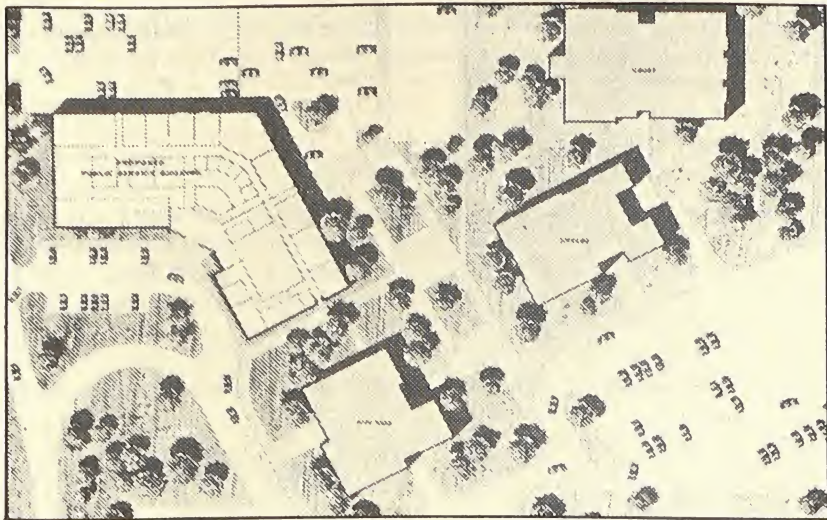

"If we continue to fund police and fire activities out of the general fund, we're going to suffer somewhere else in the future," he said. Mayor Beverly McAnally plainly stated during one of the millage meetings that services in other city departments would "have to be reduced" if the millages fail.

Lewis expressed what he said was the sentiment of the department in saying that the officers "want a building that's built for a police department." Specifically, he said, better security, including less exposure by the expansive windows, an enclosed area for vehicle repairs and prisoner escorting, a paved parking lot, and consolidation of work area is needed.

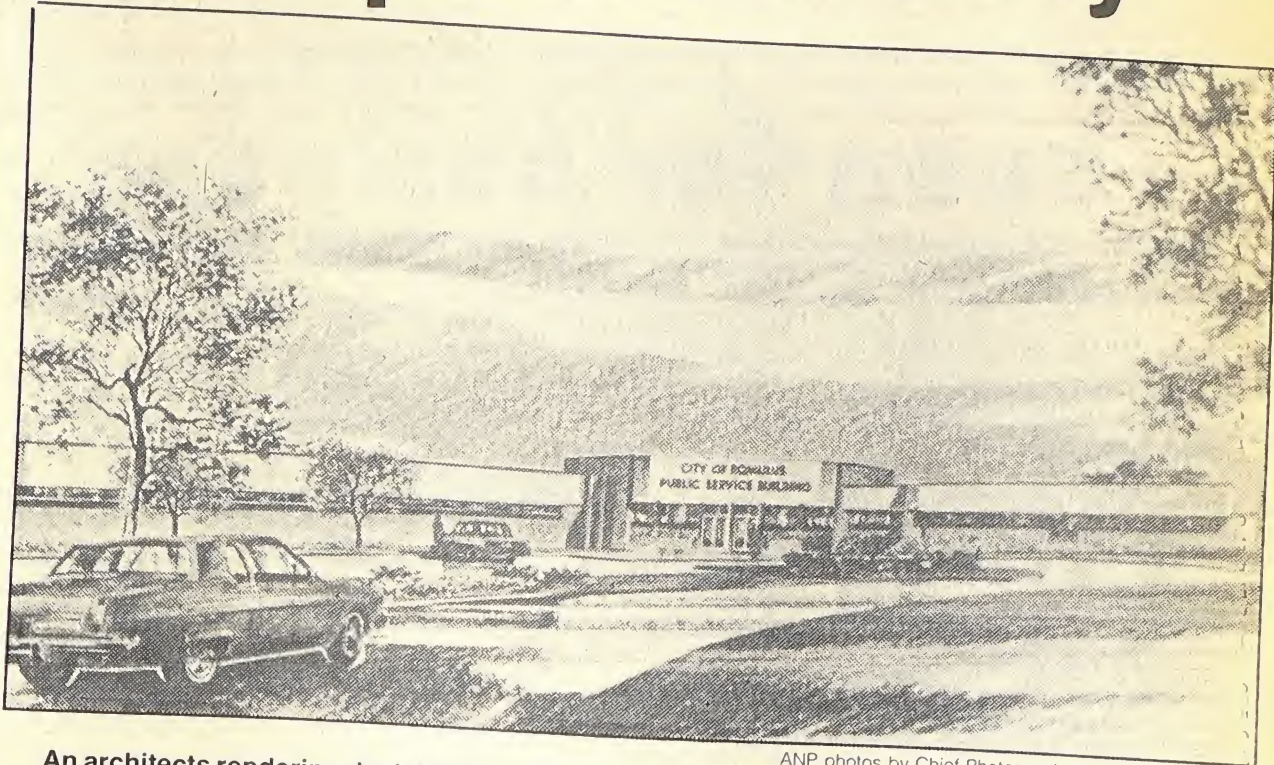

Some officers, however, anxious to express their dissatisfaction, simply stated that the building was "unfit" for humans.

The decision, all agree, will be up to residents who will ultimately decide the fate of the growing department.

One resident at a millage meeting earlier this month told the sparse crowd that "we either do it now or do it later, either way we're going to need another building--we might as well do it now when it'll be cheaper than waiting."

An architects rendering depicts the tentative design of the proposed public safety facility which would house the police, fire and ordinance departments and provide a more modern image for the city.

"We feel we should have modern conveniences of other communities for our force."

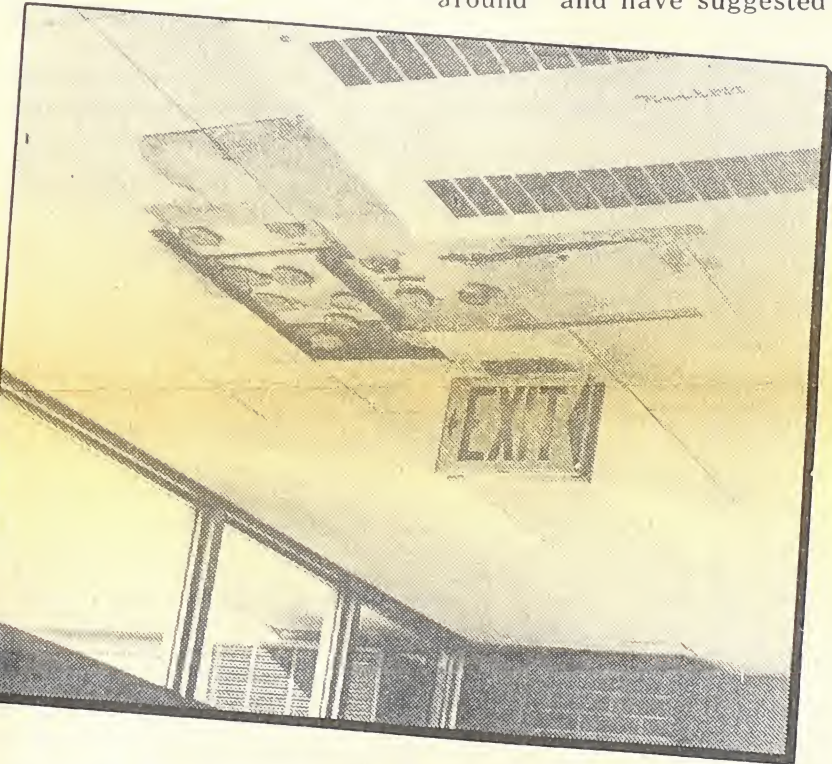

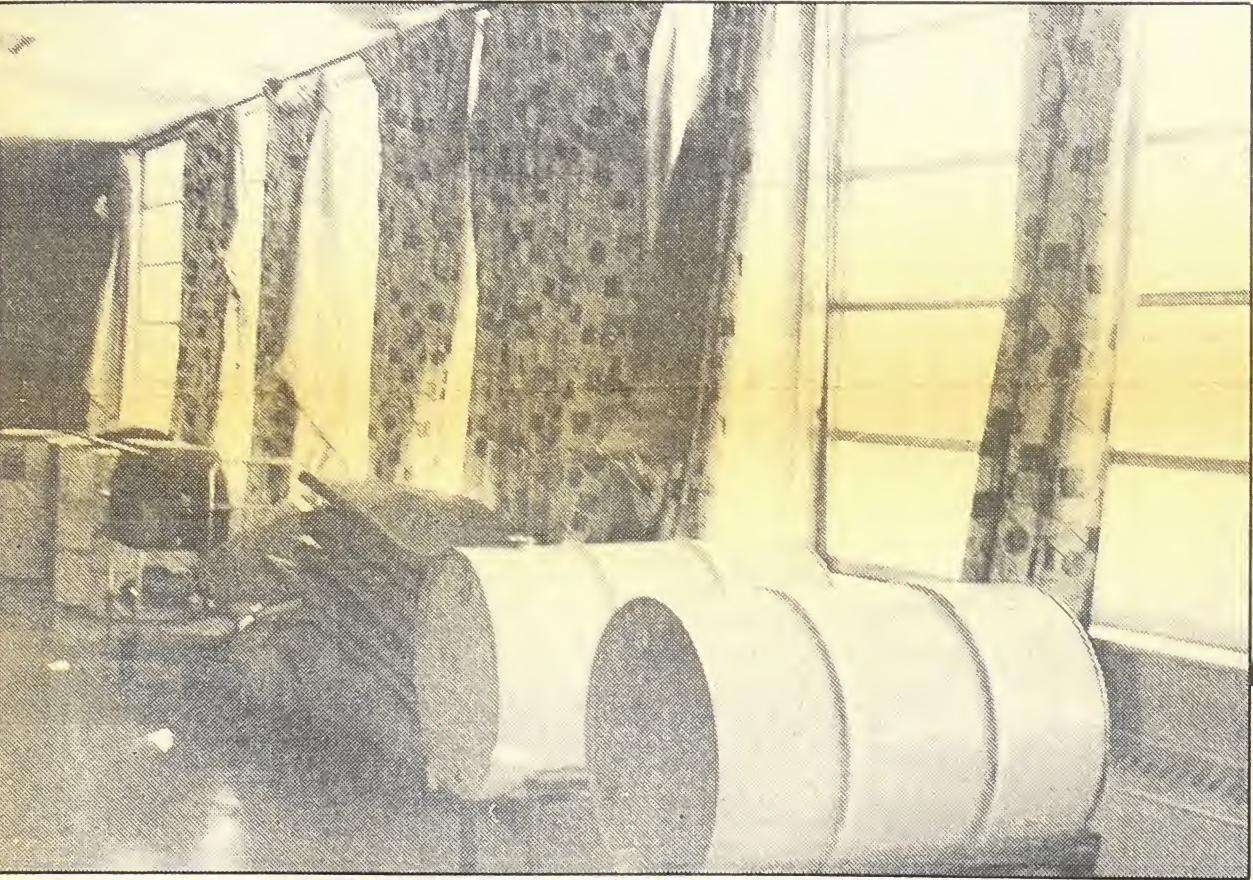

— Insp. John Lewis

Leaking roofs, cracked ceilings caused by the continual leaking during rainy weather, less-than-adequate dressing rooms comprised of a cordoned-off section of the one-time elementary gymnasium for men and the 'little girls' room for female personnel, not to mention the lack of heat throughout the structure, has led to a variety of complaints and the call for a new police station.

home for the then just-recruited force.

Arrangements were made to rent the 58 year-old facility from the school district on a year-to-year basis, as has been the status of the department for the last four years.

Renovations were made and adaptations to suit a police force begun and partitions, to provide both privacy and separate divisions within the de-

Ceiling sections like this are prevalent throughout the police station. Officers say that continual dripping of water from leaky patches of roof prevent adequate repair from inside the building.

Final sesquicentennial events planned

The Romulus Sesquicentennial Committee will wrap up the year of festivities with the burial of a time capsule containing mementos of 1985 11 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 26 near the service drive west of the library.

Anyone wishing to donate items, such as record albums, newspapers, magazines or any other item can do so by attending the ceremony or by bringing the item(s) to the Community Relations Office at city hall prior to Oct. 26.

Each item may contain a message to the citizens of the year 2035, when the capsule will be opened.

The final event of the Sesquicentennial Year will be the Harvest Dinner Dance beginning at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 23. at the Romulus Airport Hilton Ballroom.

The evening will begin with cocktails followed by dinner at 7:30 p.m. and dancing from 9 p.m. - 1 a.m.

A $20 per person donation will be charged and tickets can be obtained from members of the Sesquicentennial Committee, the Romulus Historical Society or the Community Relations Department.

Halloween party scheduled

D.J. Tom Vernatt will hold his Second Annual Halloween Party at the Progressive Hall 8 p.m. - 1 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 26. Cost per person is $5 and includes beer, set ups and door prizes.

Direct dealing considered for city

The council, in another measure Monday night, heard recommendations from Jerry Rudderman of Communication Resources, Inc. regarding a proposed new telecommunications system for the city.

Under consideration as the best of five communications operations that responded to Rudderman's survey is Rolm Corporation, which will provide direct access to city offices and eliminate the need for operator dialing.

New senior van sought

Bids will be let for the purchase of a new senior citizen van that will be converted to become handicapp accessible. Approximate cost of the vehicle is $16,000. Conversion would bring that figure to $19,500.

According to Recreation Director Debbie Dick, the van currently used to transport seniors needs repaired weekly and is rapidly deteriorating.

The van helps transport senior citizens to various activities and is used in delivering lunches to the homebound.

Wyndcliff park approved by council

Approximately eight and one-half acres of land is being considered for a proposed park behind the Wyndcliff subdivision. The city was awarded a grant from the Department of Natural Resources to purchase the land from the current owners and must now advertise for bids for a fee appraiser to meet DNR requirements.

Huron Theater presents revue

The Huron Civic Theatre will present the musical "Red, White and Broadway" 8 p.m. Oct. 19 in the Huron School Auditorium located at 32044 Huron River Drive.

Tickets are $4 for adults and $3 for students and senior citizens.

Additional information can be obtained by calling 782-1505 between 8 a.m. - 4 p.m. weekdays.

Sidewalk ordinance proposed for city

Dennis Meagher, a planning consultant for the City of Romulus, said that the more urbanized a community, the more prevalent the requirements for sidewalk installations.

"We're viewing Romulus as a rapidly-urbanizing community," he said. "Cities like Livonia, Westland and Redford already provide for sidewalk installations."

Meagher said the proposed amendments to the current sidewalk ordinance would demand that sidewalk be placed whereas it was "more a question of if (the applicant) wanted to place sidewalks before."

Meagher said the proposal was prompted by the openings of two adjacent hotels in the city which provided no walkways for pedestrian traffic.

Only one hotel featured a restaurant, which meant, he said, that guests would have to travel, by foot, on the road to reach the neighboring hotel.

Willie Hester, a Department of Public Works dispatcher, said that within the 6 x 6 square miles of the city, a major portion is currently without sidewalks.

The requirement for sidewalks, he said, should enhance the existing areas available for construction.

Furthermore, he said, should the council adopt the amendments, those facilities currently under construction and not required to meet the new ordinance standards, and those commercial and industrial buildings already in place, would probably add sidewalks just to remain consistent with the other facilities.

The articles in the car care guide can help you save money by showing you how to perform those routine maintenance repairs yourself. A good example is the difficult job of engine repair. Three local pros who can help are Jim and Ken Sioff and Rick Roland of Sioff and Roland Performance Engines, Inc. at 35818 Van Born Road, in Wayne. They offer complete automotive machine shop service like block sleeving, cylinder headwork, crankshaft grinding and engine balancing to name a few. The can handle both performance and stock engines. DEAR INVESTOR, IN MY OPINION: It appears that the Federal Reserve Board has started the process necessary to bring the money supply (M-1) under control, and in line with their target range. It seems the Fed's strategy was to keep the economy moving forward toward the Christmas selling season.

Manufacturer's and retailers with an interest in expanding inventory supply will find the banking system with adequate funds to meet their needs. The adjusted monetary base has started to increase. Consumers are again building cash reserves, and checking account balances. This may indicate that the July-August sales spurt may be the last buying rush.

The recent decline in money supply (M-1) should not be seen as increased buying enthusiasm, but rather a function of money moving from M-1 to money market mutual funds

(M-2).

For this week, interest rates will be mixed. Bonds and interest sensitive issues will trade in a narrow range. Gold and silver, as a storehouse of value, will become a little more valuable.

For this week, the market will open mixed to up, as traders take long positions in the next takeover target. Most of these will not work out, but will add volume to an unsettled market. Most major corporations are due to report third quarter earnings results shorty; and projections have very wide ranges! For this week, I expect the market direction to change several times before ending the session with a downward bias. This week's major players will be the large capitalized issues; as small capitalized issues quietly churn in place, or move lower.

The face of Main Street, Belleville, has changed a lot in the past few years, but there is one landmark that has stayed the same — the Ben Franklin Store.

Countless area families have shopped there for school supplies, toys and Halloween goodies. It is a clean, pleasant and relaxed place to shop, reminiscent of a slower more peaceful time. Courtesy and service are still in vogue here, and for one area lady it included a fabulous extra bonus.

Every year the Ben Franklin Stores in cooperation with American Greetings hold a calendar sweepstakes. All that is required is your name and address on an entry form and 22 cents to mail it in.

Katherine Hays of Ypsilanti, did just that and came February, when the winds blow cold, she will be heading for Orlando, Florida. The grand prize, which Mrs. Hays won, is four days and three nights at DisneyWorld, including hotel and $100 a day spending money, not for one person, but for four.

James R. Hays will share the trip with his mother and Jamie S. Hays, 16, and Cheron Hays, 18, will also be sharing in Grandma's good fortune.

Mrs. Hays said she was surprised and delighted when she got the good news. She has entered sweepstakes before from time to time, but never won anything like this.

This year another sweepstakes is underway with the grand prize a 1986 Oldsmobile Cutlass automobile to be awarded to some lucky person. Just stop in and pick up an entry blank and who knows, maybe you'll be the one. If not, I'm sure you will like the store and enjoy visiting one of Belleville's favorite places.

Tyler School's Open House and Pancake Supper was a big success. On Thursday, Oct. 3, parents and students enjoyed a pleasant evening thanks to Tyler's PTO, which sponsored the event.

Brownies from Troops 370 and 374 made attractive waitresses, making sure that everyone had enough pancakes and keeping the tables clean.

Boy Scout Troop 754 was responsible for clean up and everyone did a great job.

Lots of area merchants donated prizes and a cake walk was also popular.

This is a little late, but happy birthday, Kyle! You're a good Scout!

Something going right

At first, we thought perhaps it was just our imagination.

Next, we attributed it to the weather.

Then came denial. No, we said, it's just a fluke, our communities can't really all be on the road to economic and developmental recovery.

And now, acceptance and pleasure. We finally must be convinced, by the overwhelming evidence that we are located in an area that has begun to grow and prosper—but prosper in a very specialized way.

We speak of the multitude of new small businesses which have opened in our areas during the past year or 18 months. There are too many to even begin to mention, but driving through our communities is an exercise in watching business growth.

In Westland the new small strip-type malls are being constructed on nearly every available piece of property—and being filled with tenants nearly as fast as the buildings are completed. Westland can also boast of a new large mall under construction at the site of the Algiers Drive-in. In Wayne, there are more than 30 new sites for businesses already approved and the city is being cautious about announcing a new strip mall and an office building scheduled for construction soon.

Wayne Mayor Pat Norton seemed to best capture the feeling in our communities with his comment, "There used to be a sense of something going wrong but now there's a sense of things going right, a sense of accomplishment, not of what's wrong."

That seems to be the case and the climate in nearly all the areas we serve. Things seem to be going well...better than they have for some time in most of them. And in many, that is quite an accomplishment.

Canton Township just received a grant from the Federal government for the construction of a $5 million senior citizens project. Further, due to an announcement of the Governor this week, they will be receiving $450,000 in revenue sharing funds that had appeared lost to them. This, despite the political feuds and personality conflicts which rage in that community.

In Westland the increased business development is at a near frantic pace. Inkster is seeing construction improvements, as is Wayne. Belleville is beginning to show signs of an improved business climate, and Romulus Mayor Bev McAnally can be proud of the results of her community development conferences and efforts.

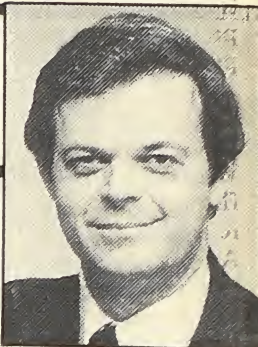

All in all, 1985 has been a good year for many of our communities. This is a time of growth in this area, and perhaps, the growth will precede the prosperity so often predicted for western Wayne County.

All the evidence isn't in...but we certainly like what we see, and we wish all the entrepreneurs who have chosen to take a chance on this area for their investment the very best. We urge our readers to patronize these people, and those businessmen who have endured the less than prosperous times of not so long ago and are still here, serving and giving to the communities.

We salute them, each and every one. We thank the new, and bless the experienced. There is nothing so valuable as a hometown merchant doing business with his neighbors, who soon become his friends. Whether the need is for a screwdriver, bathtowels, a piano or a puppy...it's nice to have it right in your own home town.

Overload and unreliability

It can be likened to cancer, alcoholism, drug addiction or some other insidious disease. When it begins, those afflicted are usually not aware of what is happening. Even when they begin to awaken to the dangers, they do not comprehend the extent of the damage or danger to their well being.

When the human psyche has entered the "overload zone" small symptoms begin to appear. Things as obvious as frustration, irritability, outbursts of temper, or other emotional acts of behavior.

As a result of the unpleasant behavior of the individual involved, it becomes less and less desirable for others to be around them. They become more and more difficult to live with.

Many things can contribute to one's inability to cope rationally and intelligently with the stress and anxiety of life; job-related pressures, financial difficulties, a troubled marriage, family problems and illness, to name but a few.

As one or more of these ugly realities rears its satanic head, pressure increases. Individuals increasingly feel as though they need to be two different people in order to have time to deal with the added complications and demands brought on by their difficulties.

Many in our crazy, fast-paced world have learned how to successfully deal with the strain and stress of living. Many only think they have mastered the art of psychologically balancing themselves on the tightrope of life.

Not much of this is new to any functioning adult in today's hurry-scurry "frantic" world. What I'm concerned with is an often overlooked secondary consideration.

As people enter their "danger zone" they tend to become unreliable in their performance in any given role. Others are quick to see what the individual suffering from an excess cannot, and most simply that is that they increasingly do not do what they say they are going to do.

Conversely, others begin to "not count on" them with increasing regularity. Ultimately one's credibility and reputation suffer, and sadly it reaches a low ebb at which point credentials are tarnished virtually beyond repair.

Some people we deal with are so full of hype and misrepresentation that once we have made ourselves vulnerable by trusting them and they have burned us, we are disinclined to let it happen again. But that is not the group of individuals I refer to here.

There are so many well-meaning, well-intentioned people who simply have lost their grip on reality as to what they can deliver. They say it, they mean it, it just doesn't happen.

"I'll call you Thursday." "Stop by the office Wednesday, I'll be at my desk by 8 o'clock." "I'll check on that and call you back." "I'll deliver it this afternoon." "You can pick up the ad copy Thursday at noon." And last but not least, "The check is in the mail." They say it, they mean it, it just doesn't happen.

If they have a degree of sanity left and a conscience, it bothers them, eats at them, troubles them. I use the little ones as examples, but there are big ones. Ones that really count. "If you get in trouble I'll loan you the money." "If you ever really need me and are desperate I'll be there, you can count on me." "I'd never betray you."

How do you deal with having led others to believe you are going to save them, or at least not hurt them, and then you fail? Especially when it was the desire and intention to do as you promised. When the only reason it didn't happen was because you "forgot," "let in fall in the crack," "didn't have time," "didn't remember," or "got tied up."

If we "got tied up" and neglected to save one of our children who was drowning in a lake before us we could never forgive or excuse our behavior. It seems, by and large, that we have time for that which we want to have time for, it is more a matter of priorities and time management.

Today everyone seems to want "more". They want more money, more fun, more excitement, more of the finer things in life. As their heads begin to move faster than their feet, as their reach exceeds their grasp, as their mental eyes become larger than their mental stomachs, they open themselves to stress, frustration and overload. They push themselves. They can become risk "junk."

Column criticized

To the Editor:

Tom Mooradian's column of Sept. 11, 1985, "THE MAN ON THE OVERPASS," was grossly inaccurate and pretentious.

The man did not stand on the overpass at Belleville and I-94, but in fact, pulled his car off the the shoulder of Quirk and Belleville road.

The man did not order police to keep their distance, no officer "almost got him to put the gun down" nor "really thought he was going to listen to us" since no police were present at the time of the shooting. The man acted independently and alone, remaining in his car.

In fact, the man was first discovered slumped in the driver's seat by a passerby jogger who, with the aid of another concerned citizen who was driving by, notified police. Such a call activates an Emergency Medical Services System (EMS). Paramedics responded to the scene in just under 3 minutes arriving seconds prior to police.

The man was still alive and kept that way by excellent teamwork, state-of-the-art pre-hospital advanced life support initiated by the paramedics, and the arrival of a Survival Flight Helicopter from University of Michigan Hospital, Ann Arbor. The helicopter brought to the scene a physician, flight nurse, and pilot. The patient was airlifted to St. Joseph Hospital, Ann Arbor, where every possible effort was made to save him.

I write because my partner and I were the first paramedics to arrive on the scene. In EMS a person injured or ill becomes not just a stranger, but a patient, our patient. A sudden and unique relationship is established by literally intervening in another's life. This holds true of law officers and firemen as well.

What Mooradian has written is not a "story of our times" but a fictional account based on the telephone call of a stranger. This story is more appropriate for an episode of "Dynasty," or the pages of the "National Enquirer," not the pages of the ANP news.

Speculation and gossip may be the American norm for small towns, but integrity and truth are surely among the sacred pillars of journalism. The respect this troubled man is due was not served by this column, and my own respect for the journalistic integrity of Mooradian's column and the ANP newspapers are now at an all time low.

Taxes, taxes

To the Editor:

I often wished I knew just how much in school taxes I paid when it was Nankin Township, and now City of Westland. So I took all my tax statements and had them added. It was $11,303.79 for school tax—other taxes on my property totaled $20,525.48—total $31,829.27—paid in 60 years living here.

Now I feel that I have paid my share of school tax. I feel like the fellow who says he has heard so much about the right

Library funding suggested

To the Editor:

The recent allocation of two hundred million dollars for the expansion of Cobo Hall prompted me to wonder if it would be out of line for the people of Westland to ask for money from Lansing to build a library for Westland on land that is already available.

The City of Wayne has a library that is used by Westland. However, Westland pays a usage fee for this privilege and it is not large enough for both communities. At the present time it appears there will be surplus money in the school fund from the state lottery. Why not allocate money from this fund for library facilities to benefit our students and residents.

The people that are running for political offices such as mayor and city council as well as persons already in office, State Rep. Justine Barns and Sen. Bill Faust could bring pressure to bear on people in Lansing and see if a library can be brought about.

Two hundred million dollars for Cobo Hall, fine for Detroit, but how will this benefit Westland? An admission fee will be charged to see just about anything that is there, but a library for Westland once built, would significantly benefit individuals who will use it at no extra cost.

Hiring the handicapped

Businesses lauded for 'above and beyond' efforts

By SUE McDONALD
ANP Editor

Six businesses in Western Wayne County are being recognized this week by the Western Wayne Office of Michigan Rehabilitative Services (MRS) for their involvement in hiring the handicapped as a part of the national observance of Employ the Handicapped Week.

The certificates of appreciation are being presented to Tip Top Collision, Total Living Center, Trinity Park West, Holiday Inn of Dearborn, the Ford Motor Company Truck Operations and the Wayne-Westland Federal Credit Union in recognition of the firms' "doing a little above and beyond in the hiring of the handicapped or in working with one or two employees," says Keith Ammon, district supervisor.

Two other local firms--Wayne Convalescent Center and Wolverine Expediting Inc.--have received similar awards earlier this year.

The certificates are one way the unit is saying thanks for the support it has received from employers in hiring the handicapped.

Last year the agency, which operates through the State Department of Education, was able to place 400 handicapped individuals in jobs, 262 of which were successful in continuing their employment.

MRS counselors have found that employers are receptive in hiring their clients, much the result of the turn around in the state's economy, but also because of a "big plus," according to Ammon.

"We're like an extension of their personnel department," he explained. "We do the assessments; we know what their capabilities are and what their disabilities are.

"We're there to resolve any problems that might crop up positively for the employer and the employee."

MRS gets its clients from a variety of places--the Department of Social Services, high schools, medical clinics, hospitals and agencies that work with the handicapped. Their disabilities can vary from mild to severe.

Clients go through a diagnostic process to determine the extent of their disabilities, to make arrangements for treatment, if need, or new examinations. Once that is concluded, they undergo vocational exploration to test their aptitude and ability and to identify their strong points in terms of vocational levels.

If the client will benefit from restorative or therapeutic services, MRS provides it, along with individualized vocational rehabilitative training. It coordinates enrollment in such programs and provides financial aid. At times it assists the client with his or her transportation needs, such as getting their car operational.

Once the training is concluded, the agency develops a placement plan and the client can be assigned to a job club that will help him or her find a job, or it will work with an employer to provide a job for a client.

Once the client is employed, MRS follows up on his or her work for two months to mediate problems that may arise for the employee, the employer or both.

Many of the young people MRS works with are disabled as the result of a congenital ailment, others are disabled as the result of accidents or on-the-job injuries.

There are some requirements. MRS maintains a "reasonable expectation of employability" with its clients, although it does work those who are severely physically handicapped, according to Ammon.

One such individual was a single father in his 30s, who became a quadriplegic as the result of an accident at home. His employer, Ford Motor Company, wanted him to return to work, but required his services eight hours a day.

MRS was able to get him therapy at the Rehabilitation Institute in Detroit to increase his physical stamina as well as adaptive equipment for his van so he could use it to get to and from work.

Ford made adjustments in its work site, providing ramps to make its building wheelchair accessible, as well as a special lounge chair that the young man could use on his breaks.

The client has been on job since February and is able to work in excess of eight hours a day, when necessary, as the result of MRS' assistance.

He is gainfully employed again, and Ford Motor Company not only has retained a valued employee but earned recognition for its efforts from MRS.

"We've found that a client's degree of limitation is their disability, but we look at their strengths to develop them as much as we can and turn them into employable skills," Ammon explained. "We're not successful with everybody. The key to being successful is the individual and what they want to do and how much they want to work.

"Even those who don't want to work we're somewhat successful with because we help them decide what they want to do."

MRS has two tools to work with in placing handicappers in the work place, enticements for employers, so to speak.

The first is Second Injury Certification, which addresses persons who have back injuries, epilepsy, cardiac problems or diabetes. Employers who hire such individuals can get the certification from MRS, which limits their liability for work-related injuries to 104 weeks of worker's compensation.

The second is the Targeted Jobs Tax Credit Program, which allows an employer who hires an handicapped individual to take 50 percent of the person's wages as a tax credit the first year and 25 percent the second year.

Ammon has found that as far as attendance and punctuality, handicapped individuals do slightly better than the general public in the work place.

"One of the positives is that our people have a sincere interest to seek employment and hold employment," Ammon explained.

The MRS Western Wayne Office services the communities of Wayne, Westland, Inkster, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Livonia, Garden City, Belleville, Romulus and Van Buren and Canton Township. Its offices are located at 3850 Second St., Wayne.

ies" seeing how close they can come to the edge without falling off, how much our of balance they can become on the tightrope and still right themselves.

They forget about the lives affected by their instability, they don't think about the damage they cause when they "don't deliver", they don't think about how they will feel later when those they told to count on them suffered great loss as a result of their inaction. "Every choice involves a loss" goes the old saying.

Perhaps if we all would consider the cost of not being in emotional control of our psyche and our time, the cost to ourselves and to those for whom we care, then perhaps the world would be a better place. Perhaps things would happen the way people promise they will, maybe things would happen at the times others tell us they will and . . . perhaps we could believe what people tell us. That's something that rarely happens in the unreliable world of overload.

See you next week.

Coast is clear

With the last of the Belleville defenders behind him, Wayne's Daren Tatum heads for the end zone to score the opening touchdown in a 21-0 victory Friday night. Wayne has the dubious honor of taking on undefeated and state-ranked Trenton Friday night in Trenton, while Belleville will return home to host Wyandotte for Homecoming. The Tigers will be seeking to snap a 5-game losing streak.

It's time for Tiger victory

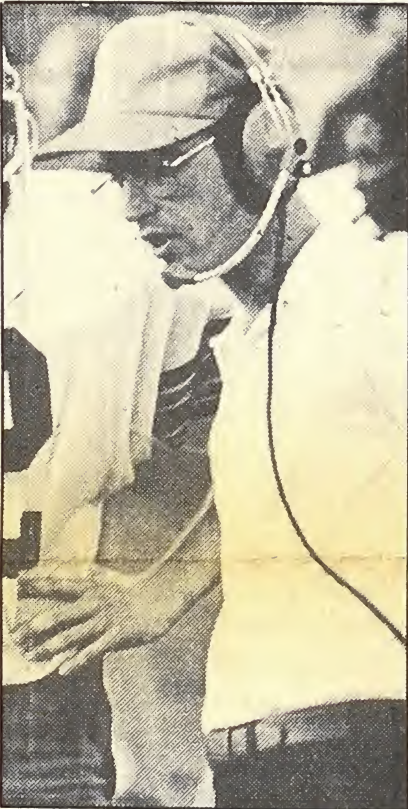

Coach Pete O'Neill and the Belleville Tigers will have a homecoming crowd on hand Friday night to help them snap out of their football doldrums and a 5-game losing streak.

Coming off of a 21-0 loss at Wayne last week, the Tigers have yet to find their way into the winning columns this season. Friday night it will be Belleville's best chance. Wyandotte is coming to town.

"They (Wyandotte) are struggling just like we are," O'Neill said. "We are about equal in size and they are a tough defensive club...just like we are.

"Guess it will come down to whoever wants this victory the most," O'Neill added.

O'Neill also hopes that his team will be at full strength for the Bruins. Sidelined with a wide range of injuries were running back Ernie Paponetti, a running back who doubles as a linebacker on defense; tackle Jeff Budd, who missed the Wayne game because of a bruised rib.

"I feel we have nothing to lose and everything to win in this one," O'Neill added. "I think we need a few breaks."

Belleville wins WW invitational

With George Kapitan leading the way, Belleville turned back Livonia Franklin and a field of nine others to capture the prestigious 1985 Wayne Memorial Cross Country Invitational championship on Saturday.

Although Kapitan finished behind two Wayne runners - Ron Tolson, who won the individual title with a 16:26 and Brett Thirjung who was clocked in 16:41, Belleville's over-all team performances provided it with the winning margin.

The champs also received a seventh place finish from Scott Herkamer (17:23), Paul Good was 11th (17:32), Rog Inman, 20th (17:56) and Rob Gray was 21st (18:01).

Belleville piled up 68 points to stop its closest challenger, Franklin, which was second with 75. Trenton finished third (96), followed by host, Wayne, (106), Inkster (141), Garden City (168), Taylor Truman, Cherry Hill, Dearborn Heights Annapolis, Allen Park and Dearborn Heights Annapolis.

Here's the way the individuals finished: 1. Tolson (Wayne)-16:26; Thirjung (Wayne)-16:41; Nagy (Trenton)-17:07; Kapitan (Belleville)-17:14; Ebling (Wayne)-17:17; Zirkner (Cherry Hill)-17:19; Herkamer (Belleville)-17:23; Mike Overstreet (Romulus)-17:26; Eldridge (Inkster)-17:28; and 10. Charlie Olschanski (Franklin)-17:28.

Also finishing among the top 20 runners were: Good (Belleville)-17:32; Jones (Franklin)-17:36; Hawker (Franklin)-17:36; Tigerlund (Garden City)-17:40; Tyron Wilkey (Truman)-17:43; Butler (Franklin)-17:45; Truxall (Trenton)-17:48; Swint (Trenton)-17:50; Nielson (Trenton)-17:54; and Roger Inman (Belleville)-17:56. Also in the field and finishing 21st to 30th were: Gray (Belleville)-18:01; Collins (Belleville)-18:07; Stapleton (Garden City)-18:10; Tweedy (Franklin)-18:12; Branagan (Trenton)-18:19; Cossens (Truman)-18:20; Farley (Cherry Hill)-18:22; McKay (Franklin)-18:22; Lica (Garden City)-18:24 and Gregg Golden (Annapolis).

Finishing 31st to 40th were: Warner (Truman)-18:28; Ward (Trenton)-18:28; Hawker (Franklin)-18:31; Paulson (Allen Park)-18:41; Taylor (Inkster)-18:42; Fischer (Franklin)-

In the meantime, Glenn's girls' team was runner-up at the Wayne Invitational, losing the title to defending champ, Trenton. Trenton amassed 28 points while the Westlanders had 71; Livonia Franklin was third with 78; Belleville, fourth (114), followed by Garden City (264) and Wayne Memorial.

Glenn runs 2nd at Alpena

Running against some of the finest high school cross country teams in Canada and the state, Westland John Glenn harriers came away with a fourth place finish at the Alpena Invitational staged over the weekend.

Sir James Dunn, a team from Ontario, Canada, captured the first place trophy, followed by Rogers City, Bay City Handy, Westland John Glenn, Alpena, Oscoda and Whittmore.

"It was an exceptional trip and I feel that our kids learned a lot from this experience," said Richard Gordon, Glenn cross country coach. "We learned a lot by running against some of the top runners."

Glenn received a fourth place finish from Dan Liedel while Kyle Szukaitis and Scott Whiteman crossed the finish line 21st and 22nd, respectively for the Westlanders. All three were awarded medals.

In the meantime, Glenn turned back North Farmington, 26-29, in a Western Lakes Conference confrontation, boasting their record on the year to 2-4. Liedel again led the Rockets, but was beaten to the wire by NF's Armstrong. Glenn soph, Jeff Chote, was third while Whiteman was fifth followed by Szukaitis, (seventh), and Damon Rivere (ninth).

Zebras enjoy Homecoming

Wayne keeps Tigers winless

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Wayne Memorial found the perfect time and place to "put its game together." With a partisan crowd on hand Friday night, Coach Chuck Howton's Zebras shut out visiting Belleville 21-0 to chalk up its second (first Wolverine A Conference) football victory in five starts.

Belleville has failed to win in its five outings to the gridiron this season.

"They (Belleville) put a lot of pressure on us," said Howton whose troops must face the near impossible task of taking on a state-ranked and undefeated Trenton next. "They came out in shotgun formation and we were fortunate that our defensive backs were able to cover as many receivers they were sending out."

It looked easy, at first.

Wayne scored in its first series of plays in the first quarter, then was the recipient of a Belleville "gift", paving the way for a quick 14-0 advantage. Daren Tatum capped a 67-his second of three PATs for the evening.

Defense took over and it wasn't until the fourth quarter

"We were fortunate that our defensive backs were able to cover as many receivers that they (Belleville) were sending out. They put a lot of pressure on us."

Chuck Howton
Wayne head coach

yard Wayne drive with an off-tackle, four-yard touchdown run and when Doug Quartuccio booted the extra point, the Zebras had a 7-0 lead with less than seven minutes elapsed.

Belleville helped in its own demise the next time the Tigers got the ball. After the ensuing kick off, defensive safety, Wayne Roberts, picked off a Belleville aerial and ran it back 57-yards for a score. Then Quartuccio came in and kicked that Wayne added to its total. The Zebras got on the scoreboard when Juan Hearn finished off a midfield drive with a 19-yard scoring run.

Hearn led all ballcarriers with 116 yards in 14 attempts and also that one fourth quarter TD. Tatum, who was sidelined with an ankle injury early in the second period, picked up 40 yards.

Wayne received outstanding efforts from defensive end Bill

Massey and middle linebacker Mike Cooney.

The Zebras also missed an opportunity to score in the third period when a stubborn Belleville defense organized a goal-line stand that failed to buckle.

"We were inconsistent on offense," commented Belleville coach Pete O'Neill, "but I believe our defense was the best it played all season. That goal-line stand exemplified the kind of defense this team can play. But you still have to score in order to win games and we're not generating the offense to get on the scoreboard."

Howton said that he was "very pleased to win this one."

"After three consecutive losses, it was good to come away with the win," Howton added. "But we have Trenton in our path and they are coming off of a 28-0 victory over Fordson so we're going to have to play our best to even stay in the game with them."

Glenn holds off Stevenson

Rockets stretch winning streak to 5

By Keith A. DeMolay
ANP Special Writer

The Rockets of Westland John Glenn have been called many things in the past... the Wizards of Marquette (Street), the Red, White, and Blue Machine, and the Team that Never Gives Up.

Last Friday night, before a rain-soaked crowd at Livonia Stevenson's Anders Field, the Rockets became the "Kardiac Kids" as they held off a gritty Spartan squad, 7-0.

"We feel fortunate to win," said Rocket head coach Chuck Gordon whose teams have not played Stevenson since 1981. "Stevenson is much better than their record indicates. It was the type of game we expected. The victory keeps us in first place."

The victory over the Spartans gave the Rockets a perfect 5-0 record, assuring a winning season, and a 3-0 Western Lakes mark, good for first place in the Lakes Division.

Unlike last week against North Farmington when the Rockets went into overtime be-

Boles 11, then Beasley a yard, and Boles came back with three before the Rockets faced a crucial third-and-six situation.

"Our defense has played well all year. We have only given up one touchdown in five games which speaks for itself. We really are pleased with the way this group is playing."

Chuck Gordon
Glenn grid coach

fore they scored their lone touchdown of the game, Glenn scored the TD in the first quarter and then let their defense take over.

Following an interception by Mike Hammontree, the Rockets proceeded to move the ball down the field behind the running of the "Killer B's", (tailback Tony Boles and fullback Paul Beasley).

Beasley gained five yards,

But quarterback Steve Irwin found tight end Rick Hassen (Senior, 6-3, 204) open over the middle for an 8-yard gain and a crucial first down.

Three plays later, Irwin connected with Hassen again, this time for a 28-yard gain to the Stevenson 32-yard line.

Beasley and Boles took over and got the ball to the 26-yard line before Irwin found Hassen for a 23-yard gain to the 3-yard line. For the night, Hassen gathered in four passes for 71 yards.

"He's been playing well all year," Gordon said. "He's in a position that doesn't get noticed too much. He made some crucial catches for us when we needed them. Overall, he had a tremendous game."

Boles completed the drive with a 3-yard run into the Stevenson end zone for the touchdown. Tony Svaluto added the PAT and Glenn led, 7-0.

Now it was up to the Glenn defense and what a job they did. Stevenson entered the game with a 1-3 won-lost record but has lost three games by a combined total of a mere eight points.

The Spartans, with their multiple sets and counter plays, proceeded to confuse Glenn and kept the Rockets on their toes all evening. Time after Romulus broke the ice last Friday and snapped a four-game losing streak at the expense of Oak Park. The Eagles now find themselves in the midst of the Metro-West Conference championship race and a victory over Taylor Truman Saturday would clinch half of the title for Coach Norn Glover's gridders. At the right, Romulus running back John Morris picks up some of his 60 yards against the Parkers.

Robichaud is upset victim

What was to be a showdown between Dearborn Heights Robichaud and Highland Park for the Suburban Athletic Conference football championship on Friday becomes a "must" for Coach Bob Yauck and his Bulldogs.

The previously undefeated Bulldogs were shot down by Willow Run's Flyers 6-0, throwing the SAC title race into a one-team, Highland Park, affair.

Robichaud also saw its four-game winning streak go up in bubbles.

Yauck's Bulldogs helped in their own downfall on the home field as they fumbled in the second quarter on their own 10. Defensive end Bill Daniels was on the spot at the right time and recovered the mishandled pigskin which set up the first and what happened to be the only score of the ballgame.

Then, Willow Run quarterback Mike Cummings teamed up with tight end Jeff Robinson on a 6-yard TD pass. That stood up as the difference in the game.

Robichaud's inability to get its offense untrack caused it problems as the Flyers limited the Bulldogs to 50 yards total offense. The Bulldogs also fumbled eight times, with Willow Run defenders retrieving two of those turnovers.

The loss left Robichaud with an impressive 4-1 record, but it can't afford to lose another and hope to stay in contention. Highland Park will be an overwhelming favorite to stop the Bulldogs and retain the title for the second consecutive year.

Robichaud had the edge in first downs 5-to-4, but picked up 46 yards rushing for 31 plays

Robichaud had the edge in first downs 5-to-4, but picked up 46 yards rushing for 31 plays and only four yards passing as compared to the Flyers 89-yards rushing for 32 plays. Robichaud connected on only one of 10 passes to Willow Run's four of 14.

Robichaud also had to play through five penalties that cost it 45 yards; the Flyers were tacked back 75 yards for their 10 infractions.

Franklin buries Canton, 31-7

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Striking for two touchdowns in the first quarter, Livonia Franklin buried Plymouth Canton, 31-7, for its second Western Division victory in three starts.

After the Patriots' initial drive stalled in the first quarter, kicker Bob Solnikowski cashed in on a poor snap from center by scooping up the ball and firing it to Mark Kerpet for a 12-yard touchdown. Solnikowski then booted his first of four point-after for the game, lifting Coach Armand Vigna's club to a 7-0 lead.

The Livonians added another score in the same period when quarterback Dave Drabicki and Solnikowski teamed up on a 19-yard scoring pass play.

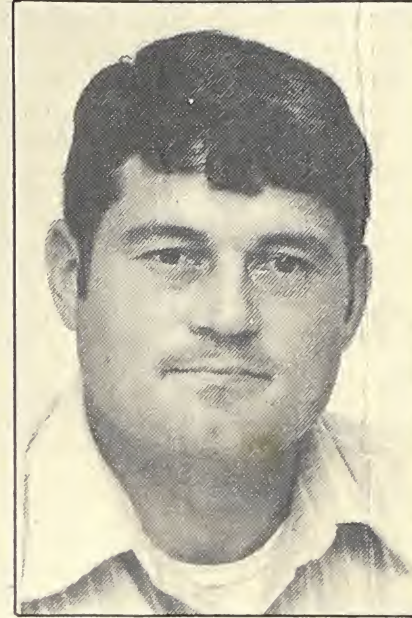

Before the intermission, Franklin build up a 24-0 advantage as Drabicki hooked up with Mike Greener for a 5-yard TD pass.

"The score really doesn't indicate the closeness of this game or the caliber of play," noted Vigna whose Patriots will travel to Northville Friday night. "Canton is a good team and we feel fortunate that we came away the way we did."

Canton averted the shutout early in the third quarter when Joel Gobel capped a 70-yard drive with a 7-yard TD run. The Chiefs also made good on their extra point attempt.

But the Patriots came right back to score thanks to a Drabicki 17-yard, putting the game out of reach.

Franklin fullback Brad Norrid had an exceptional game while Kerpet, a safety, intercepted a Canton pass and also stood out on defense. Solnikowski, who served as a split end when he wasn't booting extra points, earned praise from the Pat coach for his all-around performance. Chris Parenti, a middle linebacker and Mark Bramher, an end who recovered two fumbles, as well as offensive guard John Williams also received accolades for their efforts.

It's Cherry Hill Homecoming

Spartans to host title-hopeful Taylor Kennedy

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Showing that they can get the job done when needed, Cherry Hill will return to the home turf on Saturday to host Taylor Kennedy before a Homecoming Crowd.

"We showed a vast improvement over the previous couple of weeks," said Cherry Hill coach Ken Mientkiewicz whose Spartans defeated Redford Thurston 12-7 last week. The victory was the second in five starts and the first in four Tri-River Conference outings.

"I thought we hit a lot better (against Thurston) than we have in the past. Both in blocking and in tackling we looked like we are coming around."

Taylor Kennedy however is coming off an impressive victory over league title favorite, Dearborn Heights Crestwood, and will bring a 4-1 over-all and a 3-1 league record into the contest.

"Obviously Kennedy is a power to be reckoned with in the area and the league," Mientkiewicz said. "Any team that can defeat Crestwood, whom many figured to be the next league champ, has to be given a lot of respect."

Cherry Hill broke the ice against Thurston in the second quarter thanks to Lou Davis who picked off a Thurston pass and ran in back for 40 yards for a touchdown. The Spartans failed to pick up the extra point, but they still led, 6-0.

The Spartans added to their lead in the third quarter when quarterback Davis masterminded a 95-yard drive that was capped by a 10-yard TD pass to split end, Marcus Lowe, good for a TD. In that series, Brian Wolf has a superb 40-yard run and Davis combined with Lowe on a 35-yard pass. The Spartans also had to overcome two 15-yard penalties to keep the drive alive. The series also ate up most of the time in the third quarter.

"I feel that series of plays was probably the best I've seen our offense for some time," Mientkiewicz said. "Davis and that backfield and line worked perfectly. We need more of the same to continue to win."

Wolf, with 80-yards in eight tries led the Spartan offense while Scott Johnson, a linebacker, and the defensive backs along with Michael Brown, who made his first appearance as the "monster" stood out.

Would you believe Romulus is now a title contender?

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Oak Park was just what the doctor ordered for an ailing Romulus High football team.

Winless in four previous starts, the Eagles exploded for two touchdowns in the first quarter and went on to post a 13-0 Metro-West Conference victory last week.

Taylor Center and Center has done likewise to Romulus. Oak Park is the cellar-dweller in the league.

"We have five games behind us," noted Glover, "so these kids can't say they don't have the experience. We have improved, but we still make a lot of mistakes. Mistakes lead to losses therefore we got to eliminate them in order to win."

The Eagles cashed in on some crucial errors by the Parkers to get on the scoreboard early in their confrontation. Oak Park, pinned to their own goal line by a tenacious Romulus defense, made the first crucial turnover. They fumbled in the end zone and the ball was recovered by Rick Done, giving the Eagles all they needed to win.

However, Romulus got an insurance touchdown later in the first period when John Morris culminated a midfield drive with a 2-yard TD run.

Moris paced the Eagle ball-carriers, racking up 60 yards in 14 carries plus the touchdown. Teamwise, the Eagles amassed 176 yards rushing and 47 passing.

Romulus received some heads-up defense from linebacker Dave Bergman who appeared to be in on all of the tackles and Victor Hicks foiled a serious Oak Park TD threat with an interception.

With an a dismal 1-4 record starring them in their faces, the Eagles have a chance to improve on the record if they can stop Truman on Saturday. Game-time is 12:30.

Plymouth Salem's Brian Tiller(33) looks for some running room and finds it. Tiller has been the key to the Rock offense this season. Coach Tom Moshimer's Rocks dropped a 33-21 decision last week to Farmington and will attempt to recover from the set back this week against a tough North Farmington club. Salem will host the 7:30 p.m. Friday league contest.

Westland to host cage tournament

The Westland Parks and Recreation Department will team up with the Westland Rotary and Haverstick Towing to sponsor a 3 on 3 basketball tournament.

The tournament will be conducted Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 9 and 10. There will be two divisions: six feet and under and open with no height restrictions.

Registration will be accepted at the Bailey Recreation Center, 36651 Ford Road, Westland. Deadline for entry is Nov. 6. Telephone 722-7620 for further information.

Trio earns black belt

Westlanders Tony Olivero, Todd Morse and Reynold Mirabatur are three of the area's newest black belts in karate.

Olivero, 10-year-old son of Mike and Cathy Olivero is a fifth grade student at St. Raphael's School in Garden City, while, Todd Morse, 14, attends John Marshall Junior High School in the Wayne-Westland Commu-ity School District. Todd is the son of Richard and Joanne Morse.

Mirabatur is a government employee who enjoys the martial arts and has been involved in the sport for many years.

The trio trains regularly at Boliard's Martial Arts in Canton under the guidance of 5th degree Master Greg Boliard.

Tiger kickers win

With their defense playing an outstanding game, Belleville posted an 8-3 victory over Allen Park in soccer last week.

John Lamb, Paul Pollard, Jim Morgan, Don Hicirran and Vesa Klemettila each scored for the winners.

Wednesday night the first year Belleville team dropped its first game 3-2 to Ypsilanti High. Klemettila and Hicirran accounted for the Tiger goals.

In the meantime St. Anthony's of Belleville remained undefeated in soccer as it racked up its eighth consecutive victory of the season.

Rockets post No. 5 win

time, Glenn stood up the Spartan offense in crucial situations.

For example, in the drive immediately after Glenn's touchdown, Doug Strehl stopped Paul Miller on a fourth down pass play that negated a Spartan drive. Then Hammontree picked off his second pass of the night to seal the first half.

"Our defense has played well all year," Gordon offered. "We have only given up one touchdown in five games, which speaks for itself. We really are pleased with the way this group is playing." Of course, if a case could be made for Glenn's defense, then a similar one could be made for Stevenson's, which repeatedly stopped Glenn and kept its team in the game.

Gordon also had praise for the Stevenson defense which kept his Rockets bottled up most of the evening. "They played good defense and have all year. What hurt us was the poor field conditions that restricted us to what we did during the game."

Repeatedly in the fourth quarter, the Rocket defense stopped Stevenson on several key fourth down plays.

Then Glenn's defense got its hands on the ball with about 3:30 left in the game. If they played their cards right, they could run out the clock.

And they nearly did. With Boles and Beasley running the ball, Glenn reached the Rocket 23-yard line where Boles broke a 35-yard run to the Stevenson 42 and a first down as the Glenn fans and bench went wild.

But nobody in red, white and blue could relax quite yet. Stevenson got its hands on the ball for one last gasp and it nearly became a renewed breath. After a holding call set the Spartans back to their own 10-yard line, quarterback Dave Rosochacki (senior, 6-1, 180) who had completed 10 of 12 previous passes on the evening for 102 yards, launched a pass to Frank Williams (senior, 6-0, 180), who caught it in stride and headed toward the end zone. But Greg Bates and Hammontree caught up to him and pushed him out of bounds and Glenn's victory was preserved.

Next week, Glenn takes on Walled Lake Center at 7:30 p.m. in Walled Lake.

Earlier in the week, the Junior Varsity Rockets defeated Stevenson, 14-7, behind a defensive effort led by Naser Gocaj, Ryan Robertson, and Chris Scheffer. Mark Bauschat and Clint Straub scored the Rocket touchdowns.

Opp is runner-up

Trenton retains WW crown

Pre-invitational favorite and defending champ, Trenton, received little opposition on Saturday in their bid to retain the Wayne Memorial Invitational Cross Country crown.

Trenton chalked up its second consecutive championship, amassing 28 points and easily defeating its nearest challenger, Westland John Glenn, which had 74. Livonia Franklin finished third with 118, Belleville (114) and Garden City (264).

Westlander Karen Opp and Trenton's Kristen Zanetti were locked in a duel for individual honors. Zanetti picked up the title thanks to a 19:40 run and Opp was runner-up, finishing with a 20:48 effort.

Taylor Center's Ann Rawley came in third followed by Wayne's Cathy Jacobs.

Here's how the field finished:

Zirker sets Spartan record

Although his team lost by the narrowest of margins, Cherry Hill's Bubba Zirker placed his name in the Spartans' cross country record ledger.

Competing against Redford Thurston last week, Zirker covered the 5,000 meter course in 16:37 to establish a new Cherry Hill mark in that sport.

course on the losing end of a 27-28 score. Cherry Hill is now 1-3 on the league season and 2-4 over-all.

Zirker's 16:37 erased the school's previous record of 16:54 held by Larry Dixon.

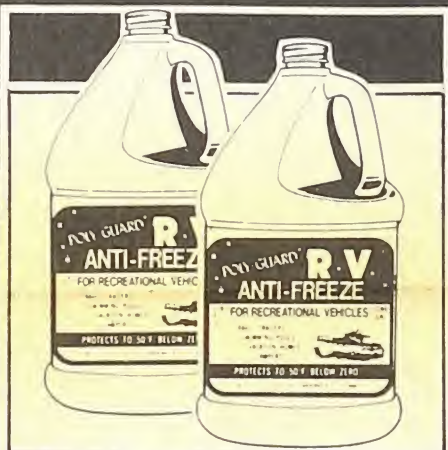

Cherry Hill was without the services of Robert Edington, who sustained an ankle injury last week. He's expected back in the line-up on Saturday.

just married

Rawsthorne--Williamson wed

The First Methodist Church in Eloy, Arizona, provided the setting for the July 20 nuptials of Ann Rawsthorne of Eloy and Roger Neil Williamson Jr., also of Eloy.

The bride is the daughter of Alta Holmes Rawsthorne of California and the niece of Dr. and Mrs. Howard Holmes of Eloy. The groom is the son of Peggy Sue Williamson of Eloy and Roger Williamson Sr. of Dallas, North Carolina, both formerly of Belleville.

Two seven-candle candelabras with lavender flowers and a large basket filled with matching flowers decorated the church for the double-ring ceremony, officiated by the Rev. C.R. McDonald, grandfather of the groom. Rev. McDonald founded the Belleville Church of God in 1962 and served as its pastor for eight years.

Music was provided by Manny English, who performed "When I'm With You."

The bride, given in marriage by her grandfather, Ralph A. Rawsthorne, chose a floor-length gown of white matte taffeta with a lace overlay and a lace-accented chapel train for the ceremony. Lace also accented the sheer long sleeves and trimmed her fingertip illusion veil, held in place by a crescent-shaped headpiece.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Williamson

A cascade-style bouquet of daisy pompons and lavender cymbidium orchids completed the bridal ensemble.

The bride asked Rena A.

Brewer of Eloy, a friend, to serve as her maid of honor. She wore a lavender matte taffeta gown with lace overlay and carried a bouquet of white miniature carnations and purple-throated lilies.

Serving as bridesmaids were Paula Ann Amos and Olivia Haro, both of Eloy, whose gowns and flowers matched that of the honor attendant.

The groom asked Ronald S. Williamson of Phoenix, Arizona, his brother, to perform the duties of best man. Serving as ushers were Ricky D. Williamson of Dallas, North Carolina, his brother, and Robert Chambers of Eloy, his cousin's husband.

Mrs. Rawsthorne chose a floor-length blue lace dress for her daughter's wedding. Her corsage was of mini carnations and an orchid.

The groom's mother wore a floor-length lavender dress, complemented by a corsage of white and lavender carnations with a baby orchid.

A reception for the newlyweds and their 100 guests was held at the Toltec Community Center in Toltec, Arizona. The rehearsal dinner was held at the home of bride's aunt and uncle, who hosted the party.

The new Mrs. Williamson is a 1982 graduate of Santa Cruz Valley Union High School in Eloy, completed two years of nurse's training at Central Arizona College in Coolidge, Arizona, and one year at San Diego State University in California. She currently is employed as a graduate practical nurse at the Pinal County Nurses Center in Florence, Arizona.

Her husband is a 1980 graduate of Santa Cruz Valley Union High School. He attended Arizona State University in Tempe and completed two years of nursing training at Central Arizona College. He also is employed as a graduate practical nurse at the Pinal County Nurses Center.

The newlyweds are making their home in Florence, Arizona.

Beer.
What do YOU think of when you hear that word?
A cool frosted mug of bright, clear, golden liquid, full of tiny bubbles and crowned with a mantle of creamy white foam?
Do you think of the world's greatest thirst quencher – a drink that's always alive, always in motion?
Or, do you think of Archie Bunker screaming to Edith to "get me a tall one!!"
If beer has a negative image in your eyes, I'm here to tell you that it's one of the most bracing, savory and aristocratic drinks yet devised. It is a complex beverage that is well matched with most foods and is, in some instances, even more appropriate than wine.
Recent studies indicate that $9 billion dollars is spent annually in the U.S. on beer. That's amazing, considering the average price per can is only around $.60. To put it another way, Americans consume more than 5 billion gallons every year—more than 30 gallons for every legal-aged drinker in the country. Sales of imported beers are rising and in many metropolitan markets they have been giving the domestic brands a real run for the American beer drinkers dollar.
The manufacture of beer is based on simple natural phenomenon: The conversion of barley into barley malt. Dried barley is soaked in water and made to germinate and sprout. (and you thought all it did was make great soup!) This green malt is roasted until dry in a kiln, an important step because the amount of caramelization that occurs will determine the color and the sweetness of the final brew. During the next stage, the malt is ground, along with other grains, and combined with water to make the mash which is left to ferment. Then the liquid which is now called the wort, is combined with hops and boiled and cooled. At this point in the process, a carefully cultured yeast is added.
Ask any brewmaster, like my Uncle Harry who still makes it in his basement, what single ingredient has the most bearing on the distinctive flavor of his beer and he will tell you that it's the yeast. If kept really pure, the same culture can be used for centuries, but if allowed to change, through the introduction of impurities, or wild yeasts, the brewry can be out of business in a matter of months.
Kind of like the way Aunt Edna put Uncle Harry out of business a few years back and told him her Red Star packets were just as good as his personal cultures.
After fermentation, younger beer is put into cool storage vats where it is aged 2-3 months. This period of maturation is known as lagering. Finally, the beer is carbonated with billions of teeny-tiny bubbles that help produce the best head in the world.
If the beer is pasteurized to sterilize the brew and kill any stray yeasts that might cause further fermentation, it will be shipped immediately. If not pasteurized (like Coors), it will be bottled, cooled and shipped immediately which is why you should never give an unpasteurized product like Coors a chance to get warm and then re-cooled for optimum taste. After pasteurization, bottled beer will begin to lose it's great taste within 3-5 months. Be especially leary of foreign beers because importers have a tendency to let them sit on the docks in the heat and the sun for extended periods.
I am especially cautious of the beer store I buy through. A busy store means steady turnover of the product. This is one case where older is not better. Coors is one of the few brewers which actually dates its cases to assure the freshest product. Of course, before Stroh's closed down here in Detroit, it was easy to get the freshest taste from it's great old Brewhaus.
The most common beer type is lager, which is light bodied and straw-colored. Because of nationwide marketing and the use of lesser-priced grains such as corn and rice, many American lagers tend to be bland and pale. By the way, Pilsner is not a separate beer, but a lager beer whos maker claims a similarity to brewing techniques between their brew and the great lager beer, Pilsner Urquell, made in Pilsen, Czechoslovakia.
Malt liquor is yet another type of lager with the beer containing more than 5 percent alcohol. Light beer is the fastest growing segment of the malt beverage market. It is made by reducing the amount of grains used in brewing and by the addition of enzymes to eliminate more starch. The end result is a beer with reduced calories, reduced alcohol and reduced taste.
The stuff they pass off at Tiger stadium for $1.90 per 11 ounce cup is just one step above soda water. Sounds to me like Tom Monaghan is using the dramatic revenue from beer and munchy sales to finance the building of his Domino World Headquarters. Talk about a rip-off to Tiger fans!
Now, getting off the soapbox and back to basics, Dark beer gets it's added color and flavor from malt that has spent extra time in the roasting kiln. It can be brewed dry or lightly sweet. Ale is higher in alcohol than beer and is considerably more bitter, more "hoppy" and more aromatic.
Stout is a very dark, syrupy ale with an underlying sweetness and Porter is an ale that combines the lightness and dryness of a lager with the deep color and intense flavor of stout.
Never overchill, but serve beer at 45 degrees. Many purists believe that the beer must be poured directly down the middle of the glass to get the best head. I prefer the less head, dribble-down-the-side-of-the-glass routine. Whichever you prefer is okay by me. Beer goes well with all foods except desserts, so if planning your favorite tailgate party or just having a few friends over for lobster and Lowenbrau. SKOAL!

curtain calls

Baxter, O'Shea make 'Corpse!' a 1st class play

By RUSS OGDEN
Special to ANP

WARNING TO BROADWAY! Prepare yourself for the arrival of a bloody rattling first calls hit when "Corpse!" titillatingly chills your bloody emotions as it frighteningly winds its scary way through two marvelously entertaining acts to a final dramatic and satisfactory closure.

A darkened basement flat, opening rear to a street reached by a partially hidden stair, greets us as a male voice comments about his evening ventures following a silent rear door entrance. As the admirable set is slowly lit to dim, we are confronted with an attractively attired lady. This is Evelyn Farrant (Keith Baxter)!

Joining him from the same door is Mrs. Elizabeth McGee (Pauline Flannagan). Mrs. McGee is told by Evelyn he is expecting a male visitor and verbally tries to extract her. Evelyn disrobes, removing food from his garments, with each piece of costume removed apparently a stolen garment from theatrical productions in which he has appeared. He is an actor.

Short on cash and behind in his rent, it's obvious that an amorous message to Mrs. McGee's ego by Evelyn would dispose of all rental problems, but a bedroom tryst is avoided. Apparently an incompetent actor on stage, Evelyn does his best to keep Mrs. McGee at emotional bay and still not be bounced from his flat by her.

McGee exits. Enter Major Ambrose Powell (Milo O'Shea) who questions Evelyn's invitation to his flat. Apparently, a stranger to Major Powell, Evelyn spells out how he has investigated Powell's past and has found him "wanted by the police;" on a hit list by a local crime syndicate and of general questionable character.

Then what does Evelyn want of the Major?

To kill his despised brother, Rupert Farrant, for 10,000 pounds to be delivered with the completed murder.

Major Powell travels across London to Regent's Park where Evelyn's twin brother Rupert Farrant (also Keith Baxter) resides. Rupert is a close friend of King Edward, scheduled to abdicate that evening and travel to Paris to meet American Wallace Simpson. Rupert is scheduled to accompany the king.

Through previous conversation, Powell tries to convince Rupert that his brother is dying in his basement flat and needs his presence. Rupert is adamant. No. Not until Powell plays his pre-arranged trump card: "Your brother (Evelyn) knows where the body is!" does Rupert indicate his willingness to go. Major Powell returns to the basement expecting Rupert to follow. Rupert is visited prior to leaving by Policeman Hawkins (Scott LeFeber) whose visit indicates friendly terms and that Hawkins is a caring policeman.

Without disclosing the plot, Powell returns to the flat where he quickly becomes involved in murder, in mistaken identity, is disposal of a corpse, and in the untimely arrival of an amorous, drunken landlady!

"Corpse!" is delightfully entertaining playwriting and acting. The settings by Alan Tagg and Dennis Bradford are stupendous.

Moon's play treats our emotions as though they were energetic ping pong balls bouncing us from comedy to tragedy at the turn of a twist, the speaking of a word!

The play has five characters, two of these consumed with acting brilliance by an astonishingly talented thespian - Keith Baxter. Milo O'Shea handles comedy astoundingly with a counterpoint to Baxter's performance, and does this with gleeful gusto. Pauline Flannagan's role, limited by appearances, is nonetheless very effective and she keeps her emotional foibles in high gear scene by scene with wonderful talent.

How fortunate to have the Nederlanders and the courteous Birmingham Theatre staff give such a fine seasonal entree this early in the newly born theatrical season. "Corpse!" continues through Oct. 20 with 8 p.m. performances Tuesday through Saturday; matinees 2 p.m. on Wednesday and Sunday; and 7 p.m. on Sundays. Orders may be placed through credit cards by calling 644-3576 or at the box office on evenings of performance at the Birmingham Theatre.

List can aid in winterizing your car

Now's the time to "fall clean" your car to help make winter travel something not to write home about.

Consumer studies show increasing numbers of drivers enjoy the convenience, and often the lower prices, of self-service gasoline stations. But they may be sabotaging their cars inadvertently.

How?

A study of self-serve customers' automobiles revealed that 56 percent were at least a quart low on oil, 34 percent were low on engine coolant, 29 percent needed power steering fluid, 28 percent needed brake fluid and 33 percent had at least one tire well below the recommended pressure.

For safety and economy conscious drivers, these conditions spell unnecessary sabotage. But most of them can be overcome by regular, simple checkups and preventive maintenance.

Jim Jaskoske, one of the most experienced auto care dealers in the nation, found that most of his customers could put most breakdown worries behind them if they followed these four suggestions:

- A regular checkup and changing of oil and coolant levels, drive belts and hoses. This can help prevent an engine overhaul costing hundreds of dollars, that may not only spoil a vacation but cancel it.
- Checking and regularly changing the fluid and filter of the transmission can prevent an equally disruptive and expensive overhaul.
- Regular changes of air and oil filters will help prevent costly replacement of piston rings and bearings.
- A chassis lubrication will make the front end ball joints and tie rods last longer, again saving money.

How to thaw out frozen door locks

There are only a few things more aggravating than a frozen door lock. If it should happen to you, beware! Using the wrong method to thaw out the lock could cause costly damage to the car, says the Automotive Information Council (AIC).

Never pour hot water down the side of the car window and the door handle to thaw the lock. The water freezes again very quickly, making the situation worse. Also, you could crack the window glass and ruin the car's finish.

The best and quickest way to thaw the lock, says AIC, is to heat the key. You can use a match, candle, cigaret lighter or some other heating device that may be handy. It is easier to use a lighter, since you don't have to keep relighting it. Even if you don't smoke, you might consider keeping an inexpensive disposable lighter on hand for this purpose. Wear gloves to keep from burning your fingers on the hot key. You may have to repeat the heating process several times to thaw the lock completely.

There are products on the market especially designed to unstick frozen car door locks. They come in aerosol spray cans and are generally a mixture of alcohol and a lock lubricant which is squirted into the keyhole. As these mixtures contain alcohol, never use a flame near the lock after using them.

Once the door lock is unfrozen, you may discover the latch mechanism on the door edge is also frozen. A spray lock-thaw product can be used on the moving parts of the door latch to thaw it. If you don't have a lock-thaw spray, try closing the door as far as possible and running the car heater on high. The heat should eventually warm the door enough to thaw the latch mechanism and get you going on your way.

Most motorists, who can raise the hood, can take such precautions as checking and changing fluids, belts, hoses, tires themselves at little or no cost.

Oil companies try to blend their gasolines for fuel efficiency. One company even uses a newly discovered additive to prevent combustion chamber deposits which can reduce engine performance. But this is not always enough.

Ben Visser, a "Guinness Book of Records" automotive mileage champion, found that several simple precautions may provide up to a 15 percent fuel savings. These are: a well-tuned engine, properly aligned wheels, correctly inflated radial tires and use of a fuel-efficient 10W-40 motor oil.

So, if a car is driven 15,000 miles a year and average 24 miles per gallon, at $1.20 per gallon the annual fuel cost is about $750. A 15 percent increase in gas mileage means an annual fuel savings of almost $100 — equivalent, for example, to a day at Disney World for a family of four.

How can these savings be realized? Most motorists, who can raise the hood, can take such precautions as checking and changing fluids, belts, hoses, tires themselves at little or no cost. Other maintenance requirements can be performed by qualified auto care mechanics.

The payoff? Trouble-free, safe, more economical driving.

Here's a handy checklist to help assure the payoff.

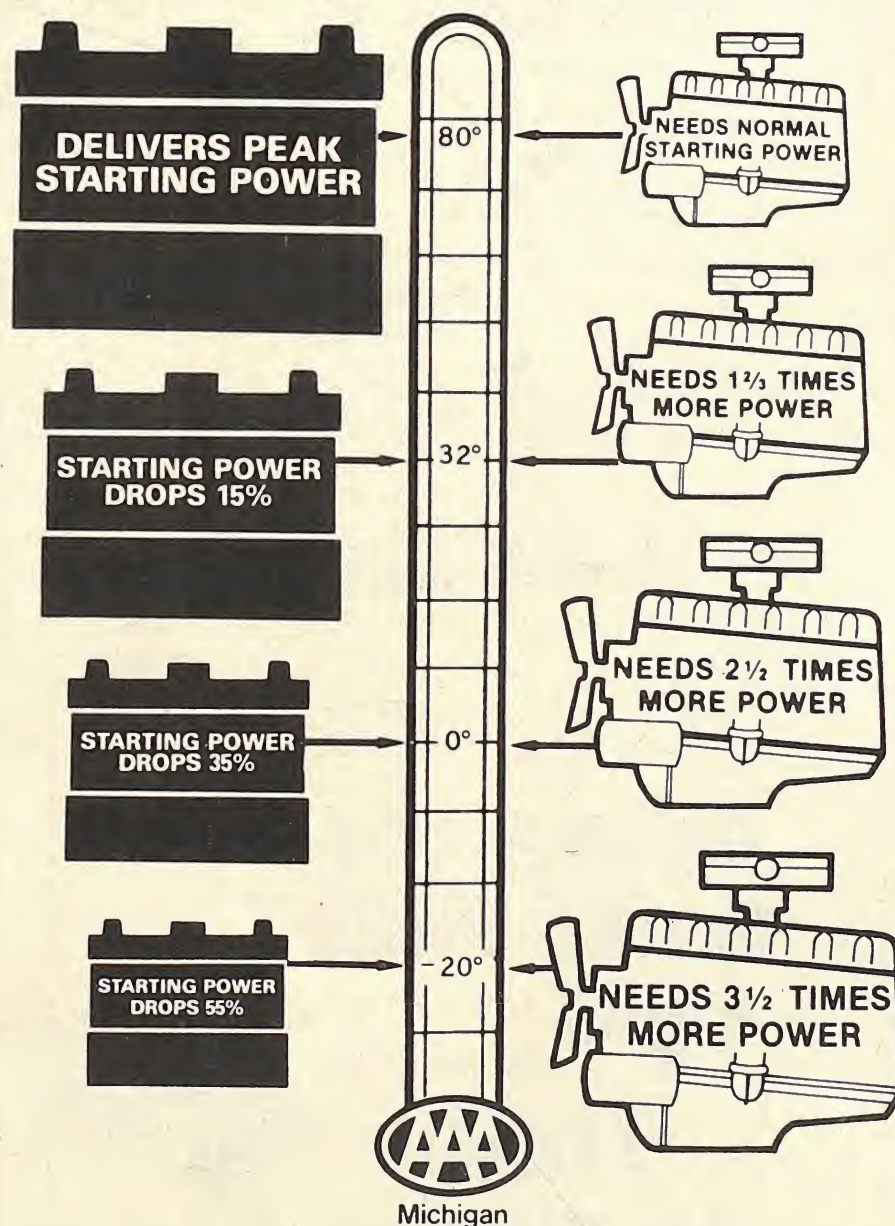

Early Warning Checklist

- Dashboard warning light(s) out
- Horn faulty
- Windshield washers and wipers

faulty

- Parking break faulty
- Brakes — pedal travels more than halfway to floor, spongy, continues to sink under pressure.
- Outside light(s) out
- Motor oil level low
- Windshield washer fluid low
- Power steering fluid low
- Belts dry, cracked or loose
- Battery condition or age suspect
- Coolant level low
- Hoses old or cracked
- Tire pressure low and/or wear uneven
- Shock absorbers faulty, too much "bounce"
- Stains from leaking fluids on driveway.

CAR'S BATTERY POWER DROPS with MERCURY

Your battery's ability to deliver the goods drops right along with the temperature. And to make matters worse, it happens at the very times when your engine needs even more voltage to overcome the lethargy of thickened oil and the contraction of parts caused by the cold. The answer is in keeping the ignition system's "voltage available" equal to the "voltage required" to fire the spark plugs and start the car under adverse conditions. Preventive maintenance is the way to go! Get a pre-winter tune-up with special attention to the condition of the spark plugs and battery.

Squeak, squawk

Brake 'noises and feelings' can mean trouble

One of the most important parts of your automobile is the braking system. It's vital to know the signs of brake trouble and to follow through with a thorough inspection and repair.

Brakes warn of trouble through noises and feelings. One of the most obvious noises is squealing. Pads on some late model cars have built-in wear sensors that squeal when the wheels are rolling, indicating excessive wear.

Whatever the signal, don't delay or you may damage expensive components, such as disc brake rotors.

Any squeaking noise could signal wear in front disc pads or rear drum linings. A metallic grinding noise means the lining is down to bare metal.

Other warnings signs can be felt:

If the pedal depresses farther than usual; if the pedal sinks to the floor board when you're stopped at a light; if the pedal needs pumping to stop the car; if the brakes grab or the car pulls to one side, the brakes need immediate attention.

Watch your car's instrument panel if it has a brake light. If it flashes on, proceed with caution and get the system checked as soon as possible.

Whatever the signal, don't delay or you may damage expensive components, such as disc brake rotors. If linings are allowed to wear down completely, metal-to-metal contact can cut deep, irreparable grooves into rotors or drums.

Have brakes checked annually, or every 10,000 miles, because wear develops so gradually that it can be hard to detect. Also, have brake fluid in the master cylinder checked monthly.

If the brake fluid is low, have brakes inspected. Brakes are activated by fluid pressure pushing pistons in the calipers and wheel cylinders. On front disc brakes, there are calipers with one piston (or more), a pincher that grabs rotors. Wheel cylinders operate brake shoes and push them against the drum. A well-functioning system doesn't lose fluid.

A quality brake inspection begins with a test drive, checking for brake noises, pedal travel and brake pulls. Next, the service technician checks for low brake fluid level indicating leaks in cylinders, the brake lines, or the brake hoses running to the brake mechanism on each wheel.

Then the technician removes one front and one rear wheel and checks the pad and shoe linings for uneven wear, glazing or saturation from brake fluid. He measures thickness and recommends replacement, if linings are below specifications.

Caliper pistons and wheel cylinders are checked for signs of leaks that could saturate linings or frozen pistons that could make brakes inoperative. He measures the drums and rotors for excessive wear and inspects the braking surfaces. Finally, he looks over the parking brake to make sure it is not frozen and is adjusted properly.

Whenever bearings are inspected, the bearing should be replaced and a new seal installed.

'Whatchamacallit' puts you in the know

The motor vehicle industry has a language all its own.

And, like any other vocabulary, it adds and deletes words just about every year. Frequently, it adopts verbiage exclusive to the world of cars and trucks.

The automobile itself has been identified by a wide variety of monickers, such as her, him, lizzie, boat, Bessie, jalopy, machine, rod, flivver, buggy, wheels, runabout, and "old faithful."

An industry glossary runs on and on. The Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association, the voice of the industry, has compiled a roster of some terms of fairly recent vintage and others that have been around for years but seldom reached full understanding by the public. Here is an edited version:

Alternator. Replaced the generator, producing alternating current which is converted to direct current to feed the battery.

A-Pillar. Vertical support of post for windshield and roof front.

Backlite. Rear window.

Black Box. Device that houses electronic components. Part of its job is to tell the computer what to do for maximum fuel economy and minimum emissions.

B-Pillar. Vertical roof support or post between side windows.

Catalytic Converter. A device which promotes the conversion of engine emissions into less harmful gases in the exhaust. Its worst enemy is lead.

Chassis. Car frame including engine, drive train, steering, suspension, brakes, wheels.

C-Pillar. Vertical support or post for back window and roof rear.

Differential. A device in the rear axle which provides an even transmission of power to the wheels without slippage.

Disc Brake. Unit with a disc attached to a wheel and rotating between brake pads. Stepping on brakes forces pads against both sides of the disc to stop the car.

Dynamometer. Measures the power of an internal combustion engine. Simulates road conditions.

Electronic Ignition. System using electronic switching instead of mechanical breaker points to provide electrical impulses to the spark plugs.

Exhaust Gas Recirculation (EGR). Circulates measured amount of exhaust gas back to the cylinders to reduce combustion temperature and emissions.

Flywheel. A heavy wheel with gears which engages the starter during engine cranking and smoothes out engine power pulses.

Four-Wheel-Drive. Vehicles on which power may be delivered to all four wheels for better traction.

Front-Wheel-Drive. Vehicles on which power is delivered to the front wheels.

Fuel Injection. Replaces carburetor system of fuel mixing. Controls flow of fuel directly to cylinders or into the induction system.

Greenhouse. Vehicle glass area.

Idiot Lights. Lights on the instrument panel that warn the driver of an engine, brake or electrical problem.

Kammback. Car with a "chopped" vertically styled rear.

MacPherson Strut. A front suspension using a long strut that houses a coil spring and a shock absorber.

Motor. A term describing an electric motor - not a vehicle engine.

Overdrive. An extra gear in the transmission producing fewer engine revolutions per mile for improved gas mileage.

Pinion. Small gear that meshes with a larger gear.

Positive Crankcase Ventilation (PCV). System which moves accumulated crankcase gases in to engine for burning.

Rack and Pinion Steering. System with pinion gear on a steering shaft that meshes with a rack or straight line of teeth. On steering movement, the pinion move the rack right or

Wiper facts

- The average motorist uses his windshield wipers almost one minute for every 10 minutes on the road.
- 75 percent of the time, car owners replace just the wiper refill rather than the entire blade assembly.
- Air pollution—specifically, ozone—causes windshield wipers to wear out faster than normal or heavy use.
- In a year's time, an average pair of wipers cleans an area of glass equal to all the windows in the world's largest building, Chicago's Sears Tower, 1 1/2 times.
- Two-thirds of drivers failed to replace their wiper blades last year.
- 40 percent of original owner vehicles have never had a wiper blade replaced, according to a survey of 100,000 households.
- Four percent of automobiles now have a rear window wiper.
- When replacing wipers, most drivers replace both at the same time.
- One-fourth of all wiper replacements are purchased at service stations. Next most frequent purchase locations are discount stores, auto parts stores, and home and auto stores.

Traveling by car: Not what it used to be

Air conditioning okay? Check. New tapes for the cassette? Check. Cruise control? Power seats? Credit cards? Check. Check. Check.

Traveling by car ain't what it used to be.

Disposable diapers, collapsible strollers and the Egg McMuffin weren't even sketches on the drawing board when Jacob M. Murdoch piled his family into a Packard touring car in 1908 and drove from Pasadena, California, to New York City.

Murdoch, his wife and three children became the first family to make the 3,674-mile cross-country journey — one that took 32 days, five hours and 35 minutes with Sundays off. There were no motels, no Interstate highways, no souvenir stands selling Mount Rushmore emblazoned on pink plastic wallets. The Murdochs took along a mechanic and a professional touring guide to ease the trip.

But the vistas of the broad American continent were their reward. However, the Murdochs were far from the first enthusiasts to recognize the thrill of seeing the country by automobile.

"The finest sight I ever hope to see," Walter Sebree said 81 years ago when he drove 400 miles in five days over Oregon's Blue Mountains.

Sebree wrote in "Motor Age" magazine, "The best part of the trip was from La Grande to Pendleton over the mountains.

"There were stumps in the road, and some places hardly any road, but we succeeded in averaging 12 miles an hour the whole distance. From the top of the mountains, some 7,000 feet above Pendleton, we could look out for 100 miles and see nothing

THE LITTLE CAR THAT COULDN'T

MOST 4-CYLINDER CARS PERFORM WELL AND GET GOOD FUEL ECONOMY WHEN "FIRING ON ALL FOUR." HOWEVER, TESTS SHOW A TYPICAL SMALL CAR WITH JUST ONE CYLINDER MIS-FIRING REQUIRES 54% MORE TIME TO ACCELERATE FROM 25 M.P.H. TO 55 M.P.H.

IN THE SAME TEST ON AN 8-CYLINDER CAR, THE ADDED ACCELERATION TIME WITH ONE CYLINDER MISFIRING WAS ONLY 28%. GOOD PERFORMANCE IS A SAFETY FACTOR IN SITUATIONS SUCH AS ENTERING AN EXPRESSWAY OR PASSING ON A TWO LANE HIGHWAY.

Filters: They keep the 'bad guys' out

There are several filters located throughout your car's system, and each one serves an important purpose. Filters are too important to be ignored, although that's all too frequently what happens. With a little routine attention, you can prevent a lot of problems from developing.

Here are some descriptions of the filters, what they do, and some maintenance tips as reported in an issue of "Road Ahead," a newsletter published by Peterson, Howell and Heather, Inc.

Air Filter

When an air cleaner filter element becomes clogged with dust and dirt particles, it becomes difficult for the engine to take in air easily. Consequently, the ratio of fuel to intake air increases, and the resulting overly rich mixture robs you of good fuel economy. In addition, when more fuel than is necessary enters the combustion chambers, engine operating efficiency decreases and spark plugs tend to foul from excess

Traveling by car: We've come a long way

but wheat. The whole landscape was made up on different shades of yellow."

Two years later, another automobile enthusiast plunked down $1,500 - a good piece of change in those days - for a 20-horsepower, two-cylinder touring car which he promptly dubbed the "Get There." Lee Meriwether then described "the adventure of an average man with a motor car" as he related his 1,200-mile journey from St. Louis to New York.

The "Get There" got 'em there, Meriwether reported, with only seven flat tires along the way. The first flat took three hours to repair and the seventh just 30 minutes, he wrote in "Outlook" magazine. "That is the difference between knowing and not knowing a lug from a valve-stem," he said.

The wild glories of the Southwest were untamed territory for the automobilist in the early 1900s. This was land untouched by freeways carrying station wagons and pop-up campers, littered with broken popsicle sticks and paper cups.

"From Taos (New Mexico), we pushed through sand for many miles," Phillip Delaney recalled in his "Frontiering in an Automobile" for "Outlook" magazine. "The only living thing we saw was a gray coyote. But the desert was clean and sunny. At last we reached harder soil and green things growing. Indians greeted us on the way."

Delaney predicted that his trip "is only the beginning of automobile exploring and frontiering in the old West."

Million of Americans will travel via automobile this year. Estimates from the World Vehicle Manufacturers Association are that 1.4 trillion-plus miles will go on odometers in city-to-city travels in 1985.

Camping along the way remains a popular pastime for modern day automobilists and travelers will be buying, renting and borrowing recreational vehicles. Many may be as fancy as the one Charles Lindbergh borrowed from Henry Ford.

Ford had built a showplace vehicle for display purposes which he called the "Stage Coach Trailer." It had electric lights, a stove, ice box, sink, toilet, convertible beds and closets.

Lindbergh borrowed it for a camping trip in 1942. He obviously was delighted, since he didn't return it until 1957.

Filters: They keep the 'bad guys' out

combustion deposits.

No question about it, a dirty air filter is costly because it wastes fuel with no increase in useful power or performance. It is not uncommon for a dirty filter to cause a 20 percent fuel loss.

When a car is operated under severe dust conditions, both the air cleaner filter and emission filter (part of the Positive Crankcase Ventilation, or PCV, system) must be replaced more frequently.

A clogged air filter also causes an increase in exhaust pollutants. You can help keep the air as clean as possible by changing your air filter as often as needed.

Fuel filter

A fuel filter is just as important to the fuel system as the air filter is to the air intake system, and maybe more so. Small bits and pieces of metal and other foreign materials gradually collect and build up inside the filtering element, which may be specially treated paper, ceramic material or metal. Most of today's fuel filters are sealed in a metal shell (or located inside the carburetor) and there is no way of knowing how much foreign material they have trapped. When the amount of foreign material finally clogs the free flow of fuel to the carburetor float bowl, the engine will quit. For want of a rather inexpensive part, changed at regular intervals (say, once a year), you may end up stranded by the side of the road.

"No question about it, a dirty air filter is costly because it wastes fuel with no increase in useful power of performance. It is not uncommon for a dirty filter to cause a 20 percent fuel loss."

Generally, owner guides do not list specific replacement intervals. But you can help yourself by asking your mechanic's opinion

Oil filter

Small, almost invisible particles of metal get deposited in the engine oil. Some contamination is caused by "blow-by" past the rings. Water vapors get mixed into the crankcase oil. Some sludge is inevitable, especially when the driver fails to change the oil on a regular, recommended basis. It's the oil filter's job to trap and hold those abrasive particles and other contaminants.

There is no way to tell if the filter is partially or completely blocked. So, changing the filter at the recommended interval in time/mileage is important for keeping the engine in good working condition.

Most nationally known filters have a spring-loaded by-pass valve that permits unfiltered oil to circuengine wear and early engine failure.

Vent filter

A vital part of the entire PCV system is a small vent filter, usually located within the air cleaner shell. Outside air is drawn into the crankcase through hoses by the metering action of the PCV valve. This air must also be as clean and free of abrasive particles as the air filtered by the air cleaner.

Often this vent filter is either ignored or forgotten. If it becomes clogged, the PCV system will fail to circulate the flow of air needed to make the PCV system effective in reducing emissions.
